

New Mexico Academy of Science Centennial Conference

November 16, 2002

- Cancer Research
- Genetic Engineering
- Dinosaurs • Deserts
- Water • Astronomy
 - Nano-science
 - National Defense
 - Anti-terrorism
- Science and Learning
- Native American Perspective
 - Museums

*Richard Nygren
Editor*

*published October 2003
New Mexico Academy of Science
1801 Mountain Road NW, Albuquerque, NM 87104*

Table of Contents

- I Preface and Title Page
- II New Mexico Academy of Science Centennial
- III Agenda of Centennial
- IV NMAS Programs and Information
- A Genetics & Medicine
 - A1 Cancer Research and Treatment: State of the Science
Cheryl Willman, Dir., Cancer Research & Treatment Ctr. UNM
 - A2 Red or Green? A Molecular Genetics Answer to the State Question in New Mexico
Mary O'Connell, Molecular Biology Program, Agronomy & Hort., NMSU
 - A3 Humane Genome Project at Los Alamos National Laboratory
Norman Doggett, Bioscience, LANL
- B Sciences of Earth and Space
 - B1 Dinosaurs of New Mexico
Spencer Lucas, NMMNHS
 - B2 Oh Dry Up! Holocene Climate Variability in Southwestern North America
Peter Fawcett, Geology, UNM
 - B3 New Mexico Astronomy in 2002
Dave Westpfahl, Physics, NM Tech & VLA
 - B4 Deserts and Humans
Curtis Monger, Agronomy & Horticulture, NMSU
 - B5 Salt of the Earth: What Makes the Rio Grande Go Saline?
Fred Phillips, Earth & Environmental Science, NM Tech.
- C Science & Technology
 - C1 Atomic Science - A Half Century of Progress, Defense and Prosperity
Al Romig, VP Science and Technology, SNL
 - C2 Integrated Nanotechnology - Putting Small Things to Work
Terry Michalske, Dir. CINT, SNL
 - C3 Anti-terrorist Technology
Van Romero, VP for Research and Economic Development, NM Tech.
- D Science and Learning
 - D1 Sacred Depths of Nature
Fred Begay, LANL
 - D2 Voluntary Learning Experiences: Why A Museum's Main Job Is Education
Adrian Hunt, Dir. NMMNHS
 - D3 Experience and Analog: Learning Science with Explora
Paul Tatter, Director Explora Museum

D4 Science Education Outreach in New Mexico

Abbas Ghassemi, Dir. WERC & Curt Steinhaus, Dir., Education Outreach, LANL

D5 Getting the Biggest Bang for the Education Buck-Data-Based Policy Decisions in Education

Marshall Berman, Past Pres. NMAS